OFFICIAL PAUL PRYS.

POSTAL SNEAK THIEVES OF THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT.

Delicate Methods Employed by Them in Opening Letters—With a Little Patience They Overcome Gum, Sealing Wax or Metal Fastener.

The incident which occurred in the French chamber concerning the violation of the secrecy of a letter addressed to M. Delcasse by a high official of the ministry of marine has stirred the public, which is surprised that such proceedings take place under the third republic. Created in 1830, the cabinet box was a permanent office under Louis Philippe and Napoleon III, who used and abused it in order to learn the political secrets of their opponents. It was generally believed by the public that the office had long been suppressed by the present government. But after the incident mentioned those who still believe in the secrecy of the post, of the telegraph or of the telephone exhibit an incredible credulity which is extremely rare at this fin de siecle. Those who are so imprudent as to write their inmost thoughts concerning any politician in power will be wise no longer to imagine that a letter which arrives at its destination apparently unopened has not been read by a third party. As is well known, it is also easy for an official to learn the secrets of the telephone by applying his ear to the receivers at the central office, and by so doing to intercept phrases which are both instructive and amusing. It now appears that the postoffice officials also give themselves up to the delicate pleasure of satisfying their curiosity.

They employ 20 different methods in order to assuage their professional in-quisitiveness. If an envelope is closed in the ordinary manner by a thin layer of gum, they have the choice of two systems—when the paper is tough and strong they slip with great precaution a very thin but not cutting blade between the two gummed parts, and with a little practice they are soon able to separate the paper without any tear; when the envelope is thin and brittle they open it by the primitive and homely means of steam. These proceedings are extremely simple, and the correspondence of many masters and mistresses has often been slyly treated in the same way by an inquisitive domestic. This industry requires very little skill, and the only capital necessary is a small amount of patience. The more suspicious individuals fasten their letters with sealing wax and imagine that they are consequently perfectly safe from any surreptitious attack. The officials of the cabinet box, however, are not so easily defeated. By judiciously bending and twisting the part of the paper surrounding the seal they gradually detach the latter, which finally remains unbroken in their hands with a very thin layer of paper adhering to it. After examining the contents of the letter they replace the seal intact at the exact place which it previously occupied, and both the sender and receiver of the letter remain in blissful ignorance of their maneuvers.

Other correspondents, even more suspicious, are not satisfied with gum and wax, but supplement them by a small metal fastener, which is guaranteed by its inventor to render any tampering with a letter impossible. This, although its efficacy is far from that promised by the stationers, certainly complicates the work of the intruding official. He rises to the circumstance, however, and after carefully removing the stamp and making a cross cut on the square from which it has been removed he introduces a small steel instrument with a special hook at the extremity. This hook grips a corner of the letter, and by carefully twisting the sheet round the stem of the instrument it can be finally extracted without any apparent injury.
If by chance the note paper is refractory and cannot be twisted owing to its stout-ness, the operator cuts the entire length of one side of the envelope. The contents are easily obtained in this manner, but the reclosing of the envelope requires much delicacy of workmanship and is, in fact, almost worthy of an artist. About a millimeter of each of the cut edges is carefully folded inward, gummed and pressed together until dry.
This phase of the work, although rather difficult to a novice, is soon acquired by practice.

There are many other tricks employed, some of which speak volumes for human ingenuity. It sometimes happens, nevertheless, that a letter baffles all the skill and experience of the entire department. In that case their means are rough and ready—they suppress it altogether. The exterior appearance of the letter addressed to M. Delcasse betrayed the work of the Cabinet Noir.
This proves not lack of skill of those intrusted with such an important but underhand duty, but simply negligence.—

His Pointer.

An eminent judge, being asked how he could turn with such facility from one case to another, replied:
"I learned that from what I saw at a colored baptism when I was a boy. The weather was very cold, so that to immense it was necessary to cut away the ice. When one of the female candidates was dipped back in the water, the cold made her squirm so that she slipped from the minister's hands and went down the stream under the ice. Looking up with perfect calmness at the throne on the bank, the minister said:
"Brethren, this sister hath departed hand us down another."—Brooklyn

A scientific combined medical and mechanical cure has been discovered for "Weakness of Men." Its success has been so startling that the proprietors now announce that they will send it on trial—remedies and appliances without advance payment—to any honest man if not all that is claimed—all you wish—send it back—that ends it—pay nothing!
No such offer was ever made in good faith before we believe to other remedy would stand such a test.

and forever all effects of early evil habits, later excesses, overwork, worry, etc. It cures health strength, vitality, sustaining powers and restores weak and undeveloped portions to natural dimensions and functions.

tion, particulars and references in a plain, easily understood professional confidence. No deception nor imposition of any nature. A national reputation

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Expon-sition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P.
R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and return ed to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor.
Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

Resolved, That the people of the Island of Cuba are and ought to be free and independent."

A DECIDED VICTORY WILL EN- THE WAR.

If the reports from the East are all reliable the Navy Department as well as the whole country anxious awaits the meeting of the American and Spanish fleets, confident the Sampson and Schley will achieve brilliant victory. The vessels, according to reports, are likely to meet any hour somewhere in the waters of the West Indies. It does not seem possible, unless the Spaniards sail away to Spain, for the conflict to be delayed much longer, and when the fleets do meet the greatest naval battle of the age is almost certain to take place.

Assuming that the Spanish fleet will be crippled or annihilated it is reasonable to expect that active warfare will not continue much longer. With the Spanish fleet disabled and driven from the West Indies, the Spanish forces in Cuba cannot hold out for great length of time. They will be isolated from Spain and with an increasing army of Americans to assist the insurgents, Captain General Blanco will have to surrender and the boys in blue will celebrate the Fourth of July in Havana.

So far as is known there is not a Spanish war vessel on the broad Pacific and munitions of war are no longer shipped to assist Dewey at Manila, and it appears that the vessels which are leaving San Francisco for the Philippine Islands incur no risk whatever of being molested by the Spaniards. A similar condition of affairs will result in the West Indies; the Spanish fleet under Cervera, crushed and the only obstacle in the way of American occupancy of Cuba will be the land fortifications at Havana.

Our troops may occupy the Philippine Islands and Cuba possibly in months or a year, but the Spaniards will have to beg for mercy the moment their West Indian flotilla is whipped by the American fleet, and Spain will lose its last foothold on the western side of the Atlantic.

The war news was rather indefinite yesterday. It was reported that Sampson had met the Cape Verde fleet on the coast of Cuba and the report was denied later. News from the front is hard to procure owing to the censorship over all dispatches and the Department at Washington are maintaining great secrecy as to the movements of troops. News of the capture of the Spanish fleet is hourly expected.

At last reinforcements are being sent to Admiral Dewey at Manila. He whipped the Spaniards over three weeks ago and it was fortunate for himself and his men that he was victorious or the Spaniards would starve them to death before any assistance would reach them from home.

It is probable that an army will be sent to Cuba until Sampson and Schley capture or sink the Spanish fleet, and then anybody can drive the Donkeys from Havana. With no war vessels to assist him Blanco cannot hold Havana a week.

A WAG says the Bureau of Strategy will go into history as the one that talked of sending troops to Cuba.

An Important Measure.
A few days ago a Comstock mine wrote to Representative Newland urging the necessity of releasing miners who volunteered from doing assessment work on claims owned by them during their term of enlistment, and has received the following reply:

Dear Sir:—I have introduced a bill to relieve miners from assessment work who have or will enlist as volunteers in the army. A bill to this end has passed the Senate and hope the same may be put through the House. Yours sincerely, FRANCIS G. NEWLANDS.

Overworked Railroad Men.

The overworked railroad employees on the Wadsworth and Carlin division started a small strike last Saturday night. During the passage of the military trains they had been kept on duty so continuously without rest that they rebelled. As a result several trains were held in Winnemucca for eight hours until the men got the rest they demanded.

Storage Reservoirs for Lovelocks.

The Lovelock people propose building two large storage reservoirs with a capacity of about 25,000 acre feet. The preliminary surveys have already been made and it is expected that one of the reservoirs will be completed during the present season. It is estimated that the cost of the enterprise will be in the neighborhood of 100,000.

CAMP LIFE AT FORT RUSSELL.

The Nevada Troop, 2nd U. S. Volunteer Cavalry Settled Down to Military Work.

FORT D. A. RUSSELL, WYO., May 21, 1898.

Camp life at Fort Russell is one continual round of pleasure from sunrise to sunset, that is when the sun shines, which is not often. We rise with the morning gun at 5:30, eat breakfast at 6:30 and drill at 8:30 for one hour. Writing letters, reading and playing games consumes the time until lunch at 12. In the afternoon we have an hour's drill, beginning at 1:30. The rest of the time is our own until 6:45. The life is one that any ordinary young man would like in time of peace; one that is so lazy that all that is thought of is more sleep, and most of the spare time, even when writing or reading, is spent upon the cot. The weather has been so inclement that we did not venture out of doors very often. Today is the first clear day we have had since our arrival.

The bill of fare for the troops is not extensive, and the fare is not very tempting, especially when cooked by one anybody. There were no cooks enlisted with the Nevada troop, but volunteers were found who were willing to try and the result was better than was expected.

The rations for eighty men are delivered every other day, and it is quite a trial for inexperienced men to apportion them so that each man will feel that he has had enough.

Drawing for troop numbers was held last evening and Nevada troop will hereafter be known as "Troop M." Drawing for position in line will be held soon and it is hoped by all that Nevada will carry off the honors of being the right of line.

That Nevada beats the country cannot be denied. In the physical examination Nevada lost none while all others lost from two to ten. In drilling we are far superior to all the others and Sergeants of our company are in demand as drill masters for other companies. Yesterday the Utah troop challenged Nevada troop to a tug of war and a hundred yard run. Nevada carried off the honors in both events, both Bryant and Murphy beating the back runner of all Utah. Tomorrow a baseball game will take place between the two troops and it is expected that Nevada will be victorious as a particularly strong nine can be selected.

A stag dance was held in the barracks last night, and to the music of a violin and harmonica two or three hours were very pleasantly spent. Twelve men from the troop go to Cheyenne, three miles distant, each day, and so all will probably get a chance to visit the city before going to the front.

Each and every man acknowledges Colonel Torrey, a "brick," and there is not one but what would follow him to the earth's end if need be. He is proud of "Torrey's Terrors" and proposes to show to the world the true worth of the Westerner. Instead of "men" the arm usually used by officers; he addresses the troopers "patrols," and everything that lays in his power for the betterment of the troops is done.

The probable destination of the regiment will be Manila and we patiently await the time when we will pass through Nevada, the only place on earth to most of us.

"VOLUNTEER."

LEGAL TENDERS OR BONDS.

More Bonds Means More Poverty and Distress.

EDITOR JOURNAL: There seems to be an irrepressible conflict between the bondholders and producers. Labor produces the wealth of the United States but the bondholders absorb the title or hold a mortgage on it through percentage and by ways that are very dark. These wily absorbers are enabled to fleece the public most effectively by controlling the supply and demand of our circulating medium. The following illustrates how it is done.

The United States census officials estimate the wealth of the United States at about one thousand dollars per capita. Careful estimates place the public and private indebtedness at five hundred dollars per capita. The Director of the Mint estimates our circulating medium at about twenty four dollar per capita. In other words our entire volume of money has been loaned out twenty times over or, if we confine the money loaned to gold payment, alone the debts become fifty times larger than our entire supply of gold coin.

A glance at the reports of the financial institution show where the great bulk of our circulating medium is located and the habits of the misers and pawnbrokers indicate that a large share of the remainder is not used in productive enterprise. These reports demonstrate that the money in actual circulation does not exceed five dollars per capita, the balance being hoarded to force the people still deeper into debt; even the five dollars per capita, which is supposed to be in circulation, has a string to it and simply represents the average amount that remains in circulation as the result of rapid borrowing by the producers of wealth.

Mr. Editor, the foregoing facts show that the bondholders have had control of affairs long enough. Uncle Sam is mightier than the bondholders, and if he will assert his authority and issue full legal tenders in place of interest bearing bonds he will make this the most prosperous nation on earth.

Prototype of the Du Maurier Girl.
On the mantelpiece in my studio at home there stands a certain lady. She is but lightly clad, and what simple garment she wears is not in the fashion of our day. How well I know her! Almost thoroughly by this time, for she has been the silent companion of my work for 30 years. She has lost both her arms and one of her feet, which I deplore, and also the tip of her nose, but that has been made good.
She is only three feet high or thereabouts and quite 2,000 years old or more, but she is ever young—Age cannot wither nor custom stale Her infinite variety—and a very giantess in beauty, for she is a reduction in plaster of the famous statue of the Louvre.
They call her the Venus of Milo or Melos. It is a calumny, a libel. She is no Venus except in good looks, and if she errs at all it is on the side of austerity. She is not only "poetness," but "virtue" incarnate (if one can be incarnate in marble) from the crown of her lovely head to the sole of her remaining foot—a very beautiful foot, though by no means a small one—it has never worn a high heel shoe.—George du Maurier in Harper's Magazine.

Death of Hon. Fielding Lemmon.

Yesterday afternoon, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. R. S. Osburn, after a brief illness, the well known pioneer, Fielding Lemmon, passed from labor to reward. The deceased was born in Tennessee February 2, 1824, being at the time of his death a few months past 74 years of age. With his parents he came to live in Missouri in early life, where he married his wife, Matilda Foley, who preceded him to the home beyond a little over three years ago. He crossed the plains in 1851 to Oregon, where he lived for ten years, when he moved to Nevada, settling at Peavine in 1862, where he resided up to the time of his death.

Very few men in our State are better known than he, having served two terms in the Legislature and taken a very active part in all that pertained to the public welfare. He was eminently adapted to the life of a pioneer, being endowed with an indomitable energy that enabled him readily to grapple with the difficulties incident to a new country and overcome them. As a neighbor he was most kind and always considerate of the poor. He was of a singularly forgiving spirit and this coupled with his genial manner enabled him to retain the many friends that he readily made. He was a firm believer in the truths of Divine Revelation, "though like many others who have come to this new country, never affiliated with the Church. His illness, which lasted about six weeks, was severe. All that physicians skill and the care of loving friends could do to prolong his life was done, but in vain. For the last few days it was evident that the oil in life's lamp was fast burning low, when at 4:45 yesterday afternoon as the descending sun was sinking toward the Peavine mountains which he loved so well, the last flickering spark of life went out.

"As fades the Summer cloud away, As sinks the gate when storm is o'er,
As gently shuts the gates of day As dies the wave along the shore."

Such was the close of the life of Fielding Lemmon. He leaves two sons, W. E. and Louis F. Lemmon, together with three daughters, Mrs. J. Bowman, Mrs. R. S. Osburn and Miss Persia Lemmon, to mourn his loss, all of whom reside here and were with him when the end came.

Captain Linscott, U. S. Volunteers.

As will be seen by the list of names of the First Nevada, U. S. Volunteer Cavalry, Fred M. Linscott, familiarly known as "Scotty," will wear the stripes of a full fledged Captain of the U. S. Army. Governor Sadler issued his commission yesterday and he goes to Carson this morning to assume command of his troop and will return with it this evening on the way to Cheyenne. The Governor could not have pleased all Reno in any other way, as much as he has by this appointment; and that he has shown excellent judgment there is not the slightest question. Fred is every inch a soldier, young, ambitious and true blue in every way. The State at large and Reno in particular will never have occasion to regret his appointment, but on the other hand, if the war continues and opportunity is offered, Renoites will read the name, Captain Linscott, with pride and say, "he belongs" to us. "What's the matter with Linscott?"

University of Nevada boys, give the response and college yell.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtiss, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottle of this Great Discovery at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

He has just received the latest Spring and Summer attractions in endless variety and is offering inducements never before heard of in Reno in gents, boys and children's clothing, hats, caps and furnishing goods. Novelties in Golf shirts, neckwear, boots, shoes and bicycle shoes. He divides his profits with his patrons by giving them bargain prices. The very latest city styles in every line are presented and no effort will be spared to please every customer in quality and price of goods. Mr. Jacobs is also agent for the M. O. Lilly Company and University Students can save money by purchasing uniforms of him. In fact he is prepared to furnish anything in his line at the shortest notice. Consult him.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in the most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts per bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

"Palace of Sweets."

Spindler and Loder's "Palace of Sweets" in the JOURNAL building was formerly opened last evening. The rooms were profusely decorated with the Wheelman's colors, macoon and white, and with cut flowers. The boys were tendered a reception and entertained their guests royally. The best of wishes were expressed for their success by all of their visitors and if their opening night is any indication, their prosperity, is assured beyond a doubt.

Give Your Wife a Little Praise Once in a While and See How It Works.

"If husbands only knew, or, if knowing, only cared, how very much their words and manners affect the temperature of the home world, they would never by word or deed leave it enshrouded in gloom," argues Mrs. A.
M. Marriott in an article entitled "Praise Your Wife" in Woman's Home Companion. "To most wives the husband is the sun around which every thought revolves. There is scarcely an instant in which his presence is not felt as she goes about her work or even when at rest. If she is preparing the meals, the way John looks at her or that or some remark he has made about some article of food is recalled to mind. If she looks about her, she sees his hats and coats hanging on the hooks, and the hats invariably wear the same expression John's face wore when he left in the morning—a jolly, good humored look if he went away pleasant; if angry, a grim, defiant, attend to your own business air takes the place of the so lately gentle pliable shapes in felt and fairly bristle with wrath over some trifle, but still enough to obscure the sun in the little world for many a weary day, perchance, ere it is seemingly forgotten.

"There is no true woman but will repay her husband over and over again for kind, thoughtful treatment. He is ready to call her childish, and she may seem so to him; but one thing is sure—a woman never forgets.

"All little deeds of love or thoughtfulness sown by his hand yield certain and abundant harvest. She may love her home better than any other spot on earth, yet she sometimes gets so weary of the daily routine of never ending duties that fall to her lot that she cannot help an occasional feeling of envy for those who have more time for recreation, for going abroad, for all the little things dear to the heart of every woman, but which the stern hand of duty must effectually debar her from enjoying.
Still, for all that, she would not for the whole world exchange places, even if she could, with any other woman, leaving home and John—dear old John—as the price of her freedom from care.

"If your wife has been a faithful and true wife to you, tell her so. Do not think it lowers your manliness any to let her know that she still has a place in your affections. She has toiled early and late for you and your children, through sickness and health, and self denial has grown to be her motto. It takes but little from her loved ones to make her happy, so do not begrudge her a word of praise now and then as her just reward, and of far more value to her starving heart than gold. There are some things which money can never buy, and wounds which it cannot heal, but love levels all obstacles, overcomes all difficulties and immeasurably sweetens life."

The Basis of Credit.

A man's past record, with but few exceptions, should determine the question of his eligibility for credit in the future. If he has been slow pay in the past, he will probably be slow pay in his next purchases. If he has been prompt and satisfactory, he will likely be the same again. As an instance I might mention a case which recently came under my notice. A trader who had gradually got to be slow and unsatisfactory was compelled to assign. His failure was not due to any misfortune, such as fire or flood, but seemed the natural consequence of his incompetence and lack of management. A wholesale house which had been supplying him lost heavily, but compromised, and as he continued they still sold him, but on 30 days' time. For awhile he promptly attended to his payments, but after a time he got slower and slower, and as he was a liberal buyer and his purchases were allowed to accumulate he soon owed a bill far larger than his means would warrant. As this dragged along for some years a compromise was granted upon this indebtedness also. Still he clung to his old creditor and again ordered goods, promising to send the money within 30 days. But his pass-record was too much even for so lenient a creditor. He was told plainly that he would get no more goods on credit, and that if he ordered anything, cash must accompany the order in every case.
Now, a man of this stamp is a positive detraction to a man who pays his bills.
After thus being refused credit by the old house he will try and get it elsewhere and no doubt will succeed. But if his record is known it should be a final answer to the question of granting him credit.—Hardware.

Black and White Effects.

Black and white effects again figure largely in the domain of both fashionable dress and millinery. Black and white silks, satins and broads just brought from over the sea are set forth by leading importers. Black and white tulle, tulle, surahs, failles and other fancy silks and liberty textiles appear. Black and white checks and plaids are being formed into stylish spring costumes by the fashionable dressmakers, and Frenchwomen are now wearing black and white satin broadcloth waists with their stylish black cloth skirts. Waists of black and white or gray and white strips or dots are, always good style, whether made in the manner of the cotton shirt waists or with full fronts turned back with white revers over a tucked chemise of fabric to match.
A full blouse of cream white silk or satin, covered everywhere with a drapery or veiling merely of jetted black net, often proves the most becoming of all waists a slender woman of indifferent complexion can select. Sometimes cream ribbons matching the blouse are the most satisfactory additions she can make to the waist; again, a bow of soft pink or brilliant cerise satin works wonders of improvement.—New York

Not Much to Be Proud Of.

Clara—I wonder how Mrs. Young-ling can have the face to always keep boasting about her family.
Gladya—Why? I thought she pretended that her ancestors were good people.
Clara—So she does; and yet she admits that one of them came over with William the Conqueror. I've just been reading about that crowd, and, goodness, but they were a hard lot.—Chicago News.

Romance of a Diamond.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century a soldier belonging to one of the French garrisons in India became enamored of the eyes of Brahma in the temple of Serringham. These eyes were diamonds, more brilliant than ever shone under the eyebrows of Crapaud's European divinites. Their luster captivated his soul. He haunted the temple and, yielding to the might of the god, became a convert to his worship.
At least so he persuaded the priests, who went so far as to admit him to some care of the temple, doubtless trusting Brahma to protect his own.
But on a stormy night the convert disappeared, and with him one of the idol's eyes, the other having retained all his efforts to dislodge it. So Brahma was left squinting, and the perfidious Frenchman sold his prize to a captain in the English navy for about $10,000.
Later it was bought by the Armenian merchant Schaffras for more than five times this sum and shown by him to Catherine of Russia, who offered for it about $400,000, a life pension of $18,- 000 and a patent of nobility. Schaffras refused this offer and subsequently sold the diamond to Gregory Orloff for the same sum without the patent of nobility. Orloff, part author of Catherine's greatness and raised by her to the steps of the throne, for whom she struck medals, raised triumphal arches and dedicated palaces "par l'amitie reconnaissante," to whom she offered secret marriages and whom in another caprice she banished—Count Gregory, being reinstated in favor, offered his imperial mistress two tokens of reconciliation, the St. Petersburg arsenal and the Orloff diamond.—Neith Boyce in Lippincott's.

A Compensating Consolation.

"I deceived you about one thing," murmured the new wife to her husband. "I am older than I told you." "Don't mention it, my angel. I find that your fortune is fully twice as large as I had supposed."—Detroit Free Press.
